Thanks to my parent and all my close friends who I did it complete by all the precious means. The timeless count that you gave to do it possible will not be forgotten. Ultimately, to my loving, caring and all the supportive friends and classmates who resourcefully supported me.

My Deepest gratitude and love to all the ones who gave the countless time with the kind attention. It was a great comfort and relief to know what you were willing to provide while I completed my work. My warm-hearted thanks to all the ones.

1. INTRODUCTION:

i. Name of the NGO: SPARK Society

Spark Society is a committee of men, women and young children and students who come from all walks of life with the motto of being the change they want to see in the society in terms of education and all. The biggest problem our country faces is the presence of too many people discussing issues but few trying to find solutions. Where we understand that finding loopholes are important, we believe every small action gets counted and it is important that we give away the complaints and try to do things for a brighter tomorrow.

If we want our democracy to work, it becomes extremely important that civil society is responsible and actively involved because when we get to choose the government, we become a part of it and as has been rightly said, with great power comes great responsibilities.

Our committee has a motto to help every person and society. Work for only society development. Like food distribution, copies pencil pen or study material distribution for children, or many more things help for society development and encouragement of youth to do something for their nation.

NGO activities include, but are not limited to, environmental, social, advocacy and human rights works. They can work to promote social or political change on a broad scale or very locally. NGO play a critical part in developing society, improving communities, and promoting citizen participation.

ii. Purpose of our NGO:

- To provide Social, Educational and Economic Empowerment to Children.
- To safeguard the rights of the Child and provide for the well-being of Children in need, more particularly,
 - a. Children exposed to any form of abuse,
 - b. Children deprived of education.
 - c. Children suffering from ill health, physical and mental.
- To identify the beggars and impress upon them the significance of dignified living and persuade them to take up an alternative livelihood and to take such measures to equip them in attaining such means of living.
- To provide medical and legal aid and assistance to the old aged and to take such other Measure to ensure their social wellbeing.

iii. Scope of our NGO:

The scope of is to develop society, to help every people more and more and more. and for poor people distribute food .and children are also developed in every society. All children are educated. On-Government Organizations are the non-profit voluntary groups established at local, national or international level. They perform different tasks for solving problems and the development of society. NGOs relate to government or private sector firms. They deal with some social issues like women empowerment, girl child, gender issues, education, pollution, street children, slum dwellers, health, urban development, human rights, concerns of less privileged etc. NGOs bring up people's concerns and issues to the government and policy makers non-profit making, voluntary, service oriented/development-oriented organization, either for the benefit of members or of other members of the population. It is an organization of private individuals who believe in definite basic social principles and who structure their activities to bring about development to communities that they are serving. An independent, democratic, non-sectarian people's organization working for the empowerment of. As a result, development of courses in the nonprofit stream had also taken a back seat. However, now the scene is entirely different. Government policies, the work of the existing NGOs and the media have a lot to do with bringing Nonprofit management to a normal career option.

2. PROBLEM IDENTIFICATION AND THE CAUSE OF THE PROBLEM:

1. Problems Faced by Orphanage Children

Problem: Emotional and Psychological Issues

Cause:

Loss and Abandonment: Orphanage children often face feelings of abandonment and grief due to the loss of parents or family.

Lack of Emotional Support: Insufficient psychological counseling and emotional support exacerbate feelings of low self-esteem, anxiety, and depression.

Problem: Lack of Stable Relationships

Cause:

Inconsistent Caregivers: Frequent changes in caregivers or inconsistent relationships with existing ones lead to instability and difficulties in forming healthy attachments.

High Turnover Rates: High turnover rates among staff or caregivers in orphanages contribute to a lack of continuity and stability for children.

Problem: Limited Educational Opportunities

Cause:

Underfunded Institutions: Many orphanages are underfunded and lack the resources needed to provide quality education.

Inadequate Infrastructure: Poor infrastructure and insufficient access to educational materials and qualified teachers hinder academic progress.

Problem: Inadequate Healthcare

Cause:

Lack of Medical Resources: Limited access to healthcare facilities and medical resources leads to unmet health needs and untreated medical conditions.

Insufficient Health Check-ups: Irregular or infrequent health check-ups and vaccinations contribute to poor health outcomes.

Problem: Financial Insecurity

Cause:

Insufficient Funding: Orphanages often operate on tight budgets with inadequate funds for essential needs such as food, clothing, and shelter.

Economic Disparities: Broader economic issues in the community can exacerbate financial difficulties for orphanages.

Problem: Social Stigma and Discrimination

Cause:

Prejudiced Attitudes: Social stigma and prejudice against orphaned children contribute to their exclusion and discrimination.

Lack of Awareness: Limited awareness and understanding in the community about the challenges faced by orphanage children perpetuate negative attitudes.

Problem: Lack of Life Skills

Cause:

Limited Training Programs: Many orphanages lack comprehensive life skills training programs, such as financial literacy and vocational training.

Focus on Basic Needs: Resources are often prioritized for basic needs, leaving less room for life skills development.

Problem: Limited Recreational and Extracurricular Activities

Cause:

Resource Constraints: Financial and resource constraints limit the availability of recreational and extracurricular activities.

Neglect of Holistic Development: The focus on basic survival needs may overshadow the importance of holistic development through extracurricular activities.

2. Problems Faced by Beggars

Problem: Poverty and Lack of Basic Necessities

Cause:

Economic Inequality: High levels of poverty and economic inequality contribute to the lack of access to essential needs such as food, clean water, and shelter.

Limited Social Services: Insufficient social welfare programs and support systems fail to address the needs of the most vulnerable.

Problem: Social Exclusion and Stigma

Cause:

Discriminatory Attitudes: Beggars often face social exclusion and stigma due to negative societal attitudes towards begging and poverty.

Marginalization: Systematic marginalization and lack of support contribute to their continued exclusion and mistreatment.

Problem: Health Issues

Cause:

Inadequate Healthcare Access: Lack of access to healthcare services leads to untreated health conditions and poor overall health.

Harsh Living Conditions: Exposure to harsh living conditions and poor nutrition exacerbates health problems among beggars.

Summary of Causes:

Economic Constraints: Limited financial resources and economic disparities impact the quality of life for both orphanage children and beggars.

Inadequate Support Systems: Insufficient support from both governmental and non-governmental organizations leads to gaps in essential services and care.

Social Stigma and Discrimination: Negative societal attitudes and prejudice contribute to exclusion and marginalization of vulnerable populations.

Resource Allocation: Ineffective allocation of resources and funding affects the availability of educational, healthcare, and recreational services.

4. EFFECTIVENESS OF PROJECT:

Our project seems to be very effective in improving the lifestyle of children from the orphanages and beggars on the streets in the time of need.

Clear Objectives: We clearly outlines the objectives of the NGO, which include providing social, educational, and economic empowerment to children, safeguarding the rights of children in need, addressing the issues faced by beggars, and ensuring the well-being of the elderly. The objectives are specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound, providing a clear direction for the NGO's activities.

Comprehensive Problem Identification: We identified the key problems faced by orphanage children and beggars, ranging from emotional and psychological issues to limited access to education, healthcare, and necessities. We highlighted the challenges faced by these vulnerable groups, which serves as a basis for the objectives and activities undertaken by the NGO.

Well-Defined Activities and Steps Taken: Various steps were taken by the NGO to achieve its objectives. It includes activities such as forming a group, conducting online meetings, allocating tasks, researching orphanages and beggars in the local area, purchasing and distributing food, providing educational support, and engaging with community members. We demonstrated a systematic and organized approach to addressing the identified problems.

Collaboration and Leadership: We emphasized the collaboration with an esteemed NGO and the guidance provided by the team leader. It highlights the regular virtual meetings, discussions, task allocation, and the leader's sharing of past experiences. This collaboration and leadership support contribute to the effectiveness of the project.

Impact on Target Groups: The activities mentioned, such as providing food, educational support, and long-term assistance, indicate efforts to address the problems faced by orphanage children and beggars. To assess the effectiveness of the project, it would be important to measure the outcomes achieved, such as improvements in the well-being, education, and livelihood opportunities for the target groups.

The effectiveness of NGO interventions in the development process hinges, to a large extent, on whether the policy environment is conducive.

Governments which actively welcome NGO involvement and participation in the development process provide a policy environment where NGOs are viewed as partners and not as competitors. NGO activities include, but are not limited to, environmental, social, advocacy and human rights work. They can work to promote social or political change on a broad scale or very locally. NGOs play a critical part in developing society, improving communities, and promoting citizen participation.

Our positivity spreading step was a great step toward eliminating anxiety and setting up a peaceful environment everywhere, people have appreciated us to do such a kind work.

5. CONCLUSION:

In conclusion, this project undertaken by me under the NGO has made significant strides in addressing the challenges faced by orphanage children and beggars in the local area. The project report highlights the clear objectives, comprehensive problem identification, and the well-defined activities implemented to achieve those objectives. The collaboration with an esteemed NGO and the guidance provided by the team leader have contributed to the effectiveness of the project. The documentation and reporting of each day's activities demonstrate transparency and accountability. However, to further enhance the project's impact, it is crucial to measure and evaluate the outcomes achieved and provide specific recommendations for future actions. Overall, this project has made a positive contribution towards the empowerment and well-being of orphanage children and beggars, promoting a more inclusive and supportive society.

Additionally, this project has brought attention to the critical issues faced by orphanage children and beggars, shedding light on their emotional, educational, and socioeconomic challenges. By providing nutritious food, educational support, and long-term assistance, the NGO has played a crucial role in improving the lives of these vulnerable individuals. The project's activities, such as engaging with local communities and advocating for the rights and inclusion of orphanage children and beggars, have fostered a more empathetic and compassionate society. However, it is important to recognize that the journey towards sustainable change is ongoing, and continued efforts are needed to address the root causes of these problems. By leveraging the lessons learned from this project, the NGO can further refine its strategies, strengthen partnerships, and expand its reach to create a lasting impact on the lives of orphanage children, beggars, and other marginalized individuals. The dedication and commitment demonstrated by the team members and volunteers involved in this project serve as an inspiration for future endeavors aimed at creating a more equitable and compassionate society.

This project has made a significant difference in the lives of orphanage children and beggars. By addressing the emotional, educational, and socioeconomic challenges they face, the project has helped create a more inclusive and supportive environment. The collaborative efforts and guidance provided by the team leader have been instrumental in the success of the project. The documentation of activities and transparent reporting have ensured accountability and allowed for evaluation and improvement. However, the impact of the project can be further enhanced by measuring outcomes and providing specific recommendations for future initiatives. This project has raised awareness about the issues faced by these vulnerable groups and fostered empathy and understanding in the community. Moving forward, it is important to build upon the achievements of this project, refine strategies, and strengthen partnerships to create sustainable change for the betterment of orphanage children, beggars, and other marginalized individuals. The dedication and commitment demonstrated by the team members and volunteers serves as a testament to the power of collective action in bringing about positive social
